Child Sponsorship

Sponsoring a child is a way that you can make a difference every day in the life of a needy child. Each day you give them an education, a uniform and food. You also give them true HOPE by introducing them to Jesus. There is no more effective way to give hope to someone in need.

Twin sisters Renuka and Jeevana, along with their younger triplet sisters, have found a home in Asian Aid's orphanage. Their mother died at birth and father is too poor to raise five children, but they are happy to be living together where they are well cared for, given an education, and can enjoy the attention of a visit from "Mummy Eager."

Dev had the opportunity to attend an Adventist school thanks to the generosity and commitment of an Asian Aid sponsor. He received the second highest ranking on his university entrance exams which allowed him to attend Hyderabad Central University on full scholarship. After receiving his Masters degree, he now works as a researcher in biotechnology and sponsors two Asian Aid students of his own.

Asian Aid USA
 "Unto the least of these..."
 Matthew 25:40

For more than 40 years, Asian Aid has given HOPE to the lives of the disadvantaged, poor and needy in India, Nepal and Bangladesh. It is a ministry that serves by providing education to the needy, orphans, the blind and deaf; feeding the hungry; delivering women's health programs; protecting girls from human trafficking; and improving lives through village development.

Based in Australia and the USA, Asian Aid is a fully supportive ministry of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Our Mission:

To give hope by fostering permanent, positive change in the lives of disadvantaged children, women and their communities.

Our Vision:

To more fully embrace the Biblical challenge, "...unto the least of these," and to expand the scope of those we serve.

Nepal: Asian Aid is active in women's health in Nepal, sponsoring over 10,000 hysterectomies and repair surgeries, women's health education clinics, planned schools and orphanage, and a rescue center for girls caught in human trafficking.

Education: Over 8,000 children sponsored in over 100 Adventist schools in India, Nepal and Bangladesh. All students must meet a need-based criteria and includes day students and boarders. They are provided education, meals and uniforms. Sponsors receive school reports, photographs and letters from their child.
